I'm writing today to invite you to join a great new project that I hope will help transform the community of Ft. Lauderdale into a more family and community supportive neighborhood.

As you may already know, Arthur Ashe has struggled for a long time to overcome problems like rumor mongering, poverty, crime, and a lack of economic opportunity that so many urban American communities face. That's why we - the parents, neighbors, teachers, and community are working to re-introduce Arthur Ashe to all community members as we renew our commitment to strengthen families and transform our neighborhood.

Our mission at Arthur R. Ashe, Jr. Middle School is, " ...to ensure a safe and optimal learning environment that sets high expectations for all students to increase their academic performance and achieve to their highest abilities." Along with our mission statement, we have an underlying purpose, unwritten but critical to our community and our students: we strive to introduce our students to the world, their country, their community, and their unique, individual potential. To serve the individual educational needs of each child is a daunting challenge in our era of homogenized expectations and standards of achievement, but each student must be served if all are to succeed.

To meet our expectations, we need the dedications of business and partnerships like you. We need your support to tap into that irrepressible volunteer spirit to renew hope and the means to build a better future and empower our community to find creative local solutions for our neighborhoods daunting challenges. We don't want you to miss the opportunity for our City to be a part of our new community initiative. Your company can be a part of this neighboring initiative by contributing in-kind donation, supplies, furniture, or provide incentives to motivate student achievement. There are a number of other ways you may get involved: 1) Mentor or tutor a child one-on-one for one hour a week, 2) Provide instructional support and enrichment such as connecting real-life business activities with theoretical concepts. 3) Volunteer your time or services to help our community outreach programs. Whether you are a small business or a major corporation, we need you.

Enclosed, you will find materials describing Arthur Ashe's renewed commitment, and programs for the 2007/08 school year. Thank you in advance for your consideration and for taking time to learn about Arthur Ashe Middle. For more information on our partnership, volunteer, or mentoring program please contact me at 754-322-2800 or through e-mail at Christopher.gates@browardschools.com

Sincerely,

Christopher A. Gates
School Partnership Liaison/ Coordinator
